FORTY-THIRD YEAR NO. 46.

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1920.

PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR

FAREWELL FOR BROOKLINE PASTOR

Rev. Dr. Hike and Wife Given $200 in Gold

More than 800 persons, including, besides the parishioners of the First Presbyterian Church, Brookline, many from other churches, ministers and town officials, lined in a farewell reception to Rev. Dr. William Wallace Hike, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and his wife, last evening.

It was probably the largest affair of its kind ever held in Brookline, due to the fact that Dr. Hike is so widely and popularly known in the town and to the fact that his kindly influence and good cheer have made themselves felt far from his own church and denomination.

The reception and program of addresses which preceded it were held in the church auditorium. The users of the building to accommodate the rear of the building to accommodate all those who attended.

The arrangements were made by the Ladies Aid Society of the church, Mrs. Albert N. Hike, president, and Mrs. E. W. Phillips, secretary, in direct charge. Frank W. Phillips presided and introduced the speakers.

Dr. Hike has accepted a call to the Presbyterian Church in Erie, Penn., and preaches his last sermon in Brookline next Sunday, having completed 12 years in the First Presbyterian Church there.

In appreciation of the faithful service of Dr. Hike and his wife, the people presented them $200 in gold last evening. The young women of the Philanthropic Class, Miss Hazel Stewart, president, presented the minister and his wife a handsome butterfly serving tray.

Among the special guests seated on the platform were Miss Mary McKimmon, principal of the Pierce School; Dr. Francis B. Denny, health agent for Brookline, and Mrs. Denny; and Mrs. J. J. Phillips, who for many years was president of the Ladies Aid Society.

The speakers were Rev. Dr. G. W. Warren of the East Boston Presbyterian Church; Rev. Dr. Clarence A. Young of the Rochester Presbyterian Church; Rev. Dr. Charles Conklin of the Boston Universal Church; Brookline; S. J. McNelly, chairman of the board of trustees of the Presbyterian Church; Robert Duncan of the session; Matthew S. McNelly, superintendent of the Sunday school, and G. Loring Briggs, manager of the Boston Floating Hospital.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Thomas R. Turner of the Quincy Presbyterian Church. Miss Doris Emerson contributed solos and there was a quartette number by young men of the church. J. Maxwell Croxy, Peter Reed, Reginald Hiltz and Joseph Richardson. The pianist was Dana Burdett, the church organist.

The speakers all referred to Dr. Hike as a man who was always sincere and sympathetic, a man always true to his principles; who spoke what he felt; whose good cheer and warm smile in the sick room were more valuable than medicine.

The speakers also spoke highly of Mrs. Hike and the part she has played with her husband in building up the First Presbyterian Church and in solidifying its personnel into a great working force for good.

Mr. McNelly of the trustees said that when Dr. Hike came to Brookline 12 years ago, the church had a membership of 300 and that its contribution to missions was not more than $2.00.

Since then the church has acquired the property formerly occupied by the Baptist Church, cleared its mortgage and is free of financial obligations.

The church membership, he said, is now 850 and its last contribution to missions was $4500. The Sunday school membership is 350 and average attendance 300.—Boston Globe.

AMERICANIZATION

The Union Preaching Service on next Sabbath evening will be in the United Presbyterian Church. Rev. White will speak on the subject of Americanization. The sermon will be illustrated by twenty-five stereoscopic views showing the religious and social work that is being done among the foreigners in this country. All are invited to be present.

MANY EPIDEMICS ABROAD

There are many epidemics in neighboring countries just at present. Diphtheria is raging in Madison county. Champaign county schools also have the same disease among students; scarlet fever is found at Jeffersonville and the schools are closed. Parents are urged to use precaution in cases of sore throat.

HUNTING SEASON OPENS

The rabbit hunting season opens Monday and continues until the first of the year. Many licenses are being issued. It is said there is an abundance of rabbits this season.

FORD AGENTS MEET.

R. A. Murdock attended a meeting of Ford dealers in Columbus last Friday when general business conditions were reviewed.

The Ford company has a business policy of always taking their agents in all branches of the business, knowing that their interests must be mutual in a way.

At this meeting a representative from the Detroit office went into detail relative to present automobile conditions.

Some interesting figures were given out that have a bearing on the business as a result of the recent reduction in prices.

The expert showed the dealers that the company lost $30.52 on every touring car manufactured. On the runabout the loss is $44.36. On the sedan, $31.83 is the loss.

On the profit side the plain chassis nets $1.77. A truck, $30; coupe, $30. It was also announced that there would be no other reduction for the next twelve months, neither would there be any change in models as has been reported.

The company has ninety million dollars worth of material contracted for the coming year at the old price which should indicate in the face of the above figures that the company could not stand any other reduction.

In fact it is almost certain that unless the company can go into the market and make additional purchases on lower prices than present contracts there will be an increase in the price after the first of the year.

With nearly a half hundred automobile manufacturing concerns in Detroit, the Ford plant is the only one in operation at the present time. The company has 30,000 employees in the main factory and in all branches.

ENTERTAIN FOR U. P. BIBLE CLASS

The men's Bible Class of the U. P. Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Jobe in Tuesday evening of this week. It was the annual meeting of the class and the members brot their wives for a good social evening.

After the social chat, the meeting was called to order and the following program was given reading by Miss Mary Taylor, "The house by the side of the road." Mr. O. H. Kyle, Mr. O. H. Kyle of Altoona, Pa. Brother of Mr. J. E. Kyle was present and gave a talk on increasing the influence of ones life.

The pastor, Rev. White, spoke a few words on the Bible Class and the congregation as the Pastors' Force, rather than the Pastors' Flock. He said that the congregation that had the vision would be the Church of the future. After the program the following officers were elected for the next year: President, Mr. J. E. Turnbull, Secretary, Mr. J. E. Turnbull, Treasurer, Mr. W. A. Spencer. A Social Committee, a membership committee, for visiting the sick were appointed.

After the business session refreshments were served and a good social game was enjoyed. At a late hour the guests departed, having had a most delightful evening in the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Jobe.

AUDITOR WAS SUED

County auditor R. O. Wead was defendant in Common Pleas Court this week on a suit filed by Joseph Tate, assessor for Xenia township. Tate was removed for incompetency by the auditor and he brought suit for his salary. Judge Hornbeck of London heard the case and reserved his decision.

FORCED TO LEAVE COLLEGE

Raymond Wilhelm, aged 16, West Jefferson student at the O. S. U., taking an engineering course, was forced to leave Saturday and return home when his age was discovered. The lad gave his age as 17 when he entered and he had credits necessary for admission. The state law sets 17 as the earliest a student can enter the university.

MARKETS ARE FALLING

The market situation this week has not been encouraging to those who have hogs, cattle, or corn to sell. Prices have been falling for several days. Wheat is less than two dollars and as a result flour has dropped to $9.65 a barrel, the lowest in two years.

ARMISTICE DAY

There was no special program here for the celebration of Armistice Day though in some localities special exercises were given in memory of the great deeds and sacrifices made by those who now rest in France.

BETTER STICK TO YOUR JOB

According to the superintendent of the Labor Bureau in Dayton there was 1419 men, women and boys that applied at Headquarters last week for jobs in that city. The superintendent was only able to place 418 says the Dayton News.

ELECTION COSTS MOUNT

In many counties boards of elections changed precincts following suffrage for women. This meant more election equipment and more election officials and added greatly to the cost of operating the election. It now developed that in most of these precincts the change was unnecessary.

The People Who Fail

85 Per Cent of the people over 65 years of age have failed miserably and now are dependent upon others.

Most people would be comfortably well-to-do if they had not stopped saving money. Nearly everyone, at one time or other, begins to save, though relatively few stick to it until they acquire the habit. That failure to stick to one's purpose is the distinguishing trait of people who fail.

It is safe to affirm that systematic saving for twenty years will absolutely preclude the possibility of ever being dependent.

This Bank will help you increase your savings by adding 4 Per Cent interest. If you haven't a Savings Account, start one this week, and above all keep it growing. Don't be one of the people who fail.

SIGNS ARE HOPEFUL

We have always noticed that the public takes the charitable side of most every situation. Take for instance the selection of a common place judge. The $2000 a year salary will certainly make it possible for us to get the $4.30 that has been on our books since October 1914 with interest at six per cent. Again there is no need of the successful one's property being placed on the delinquent list for taxes in the future as in the years back to 1915. And then again fraternal organizations evidently will have one less delinquent when the $2000 salary starts. We think the situation has been handled from the charitable view knowing full well that an attorney that has had only three jury cases in ten years could not meet his obligations.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

A new high school building containing 400 rooms has been erected at Cincinnati which is considered as one of the best in the State. Several meetings of the conference were held at this building.

The teachers of Cedarville Public School have returned from the South-West conference, held at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Elizabeth Barnett was a visitor at the high school this week.

Dr. Johnson, teacher of history at Case school of Applied Science visited at the high school Monday afternoon.

A Basket Ball practice schedule was made Monday for the High School teams.

Roger Collins, a former College Basket Ball Star has been engaged as a coach for the boy's team of the high school.

The afternoon has been divided into four periods so that the fourth period can be used as a time to practice for the literary programs, which will be held monthly. The first program will be given November 24, 1920.

Miss Jane Mitchell, teacher of domestic Science, has taken charge of the girls Basket Ball team which promises to be one of the best in the county.

AFTER GINGER DEALERS

The government is after grocers, retail and wholesale, selling jamica ginger, that can be used as an intoxicant if the drinker can stand to drink it. H. E. Schmidt & Co., and a Washington C. H. grocery wholesale house are under the ban. Groceries have had a monstrous sale of lemon and other extracts, ginger, yeast, and raisins. The latter is used for making "raisin jack" and the yeast for "home brew" while the extracts are placed in near beer to increase the alcoholic content. A traveling man in town several days ago stated that it was a noticeable thing that more attention was being paid to concerns where the head was of Republican tendency than Democratic.

THE LIGHT OF TRUTH

By SAIDEE E. BALCOM

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

His collar had been turned, his cuffs straightened. To an attentive observer the fact would have been patent. His coat was buttoned up rather closely, buttoning a countenance as to spotless linen. The shoes on his feet were of yesterday. Altogether, Ross Tindelle did not present the perfect elegance of a man's bearing that had made him a conspicuous figure as the star guest at the Waltham hotel for two weeks past.

For all the evidences of carelessness or a lack of funds, he entered the Waltham bank with his usual air of assured independence. "Friend," he spoke tersely, and the cashier inclined his head towards a glass door bearing that official word. As he pushed it open Tindelle hesitated, for the only occupant of the room was a charming young lady whose loveliness dazzled him quite with her unexpected presence.

"Pardon me," spoke Tindelle. "It was Mr. Marsh I wished to see."

"My father, yes. He will be here in a moment," replied Miss Bertha Marsh, and her eyes expressed the gracefully courteous attention the presence of a really handsome man could not help but influence. Just then her father appeared, nodded casually to Tindelle whom he, like all the other residents, had become accustomed to see about the town, and looked inquiringly.

"Mr. Marsh," spoke the caller, "I am Ross Tindelle, as you may know. I have been disappointed as to a remittance. It may arrive today, it may not come for a week. I owe my hotel and other bills amounting to somewhere near one hundred dollars. Will you loan me that amount for thirty days?"

John Marsh, viewed the applicant critically, but only for a moment. This was certainly a fine looking young man with refinement, intelligence and above all character manifested in face and bearing. The banker sat down at his desk, drew a book of blanks towards him and proceeded to fill out one of them.

"One hundred—thirty days, you say—surely. I am glad to accommodate you, Mr. Tindelle."

Bertha Marsh expressed a slight quiver of surprise, relief and gladness, too. A pleased, proud smile crossed the lips of the applicant.

"That is pretty kind and complimentary, Mr. Marsh," he said. "I am a comparative stranger to you."

"I trust you entirely, Mr. Tindelle," said the banker. "There is the light of truth in your eyes. Please sign on the first line and our cashier will honor the commitment," and Ross Tindelle with a bow of thanks, including the pretty daughter, who seemed pleased at the outcome of the circumstance of the moment, left the room.

His occupants were again father and daughter when, five days later, Ross Tindelle, again entered the bank. There was a further deterioration visible as to dress and bearing, but he was the same composed and definite person as to speech and direction.

"Mr. Marsh," he said at once, "my remittance has not arrived and may not. I am the biggest in the city in a case involving nearly fifty thousand dollars. My attorney has always financed me on the basis of a liberal contingent fee, but he writes me that it now looks as if we will lose the suit and does not feel like going any further in the way of money advances. I owe you one hundred dollars. To pay it I must go to work here in Waltham. You are putting up that new block next to the hotel. Will you give me a note to your contractor recommending me for employment?"

Without comment in his usual systematic way, Mr. Marsh wrote out the introduction requested. Again with quiet dignity Ross Tindelle bowed his thanks.

More than once later Bertha, as if in a casual way, asked her father about Tindelle. "He is working at day labor," reported the banker, "digging a cellar, hauling material in a wheelbarrow."

"Oh, father!" burst forth Bertha irrepressibly.

John Marsh was quick to detect the note of pity and interest in his daughter's voice. "I see he has won your good will as well as my own," he said clearly. "Never mind that. He is headed right and I want to see how the young man works out."

He worked out so well that the day before the note was due, bronzed, handhappened, but clear of eye, vigorous and buoyant of tone, Tindelle came into the bank and paid the note. Bertha was there.

"A friend has sent me some money," Tindelle told them. "I believe my lawyer is intent on selling me out to the other side and I am going to fight for my rights."

"Success!" cheered the banker. "I hope to see you again."

"And I also," spoke Bertha, and she extended her hand. "A real man, father," she added, and with emotion, as Tindelle departed.

Two months later Ross Tindelle drove up to the bank in an automobile. He looked prosperous. "I have won my case," he reported, "and I have quite a little fortune to place in your hands for investment. You see, I like Waltham and the people who live here," and his magnetic eyes rested upon the face of Bertha, and within their depths she read the light of truth—and love.

THINNING IMPROVES VALUABLE WOODLAND

Lack of Proper Treatment Is Cause of Much Loss.

Farmer Should Take Steps to Give Trees Sufficient Light and Soil Moisture for Them to Thrive and Become Profitable.

Lack of proper thinning and cutting is a common cause of woodland being unprofitable, according to a recent bulletin entitled, "Making Woodlands Profitable in the Southern States," issued by the United States department of agriculture. Nature usually over-crowds trees in a given space, says this publication, and so steps should be taken to give them sufficient light and soil moisture to thrive and become profitable.

By properly controlling the number of trees on a tract it is possible to increase their rate of growth and eventually their size. Except for the production of cordwood, a few large trees on a given area are usually more desirable than many small ones. If possible, valuable kinds of wood should be grown in preference to common woods which bring lower prices. Woodlands

Farm Woodland Marked for Conservative Thinning.

In this country, as a rule, contain many crooked, forked and diseased trees which should be replaced by straight, sound ones. Soon after a cutting trees show an increased growth and the whole woodland rapidly increases in value by the elimination of inferior trees.

With an active market for cordwood and for fence posts, poles and lumber, there is every inducement to clear out the inferior trees—diseased, dying, crooked and less valuable kinds. Right cutting also includes the removal of large, sound trees whose growth is slow because they are nearing or have reached maturity. The cutting should be done only at a time of favorable market conditions or when building or other timber is needed on the farm. Copies of this bulletin may be had by addressing the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Prof. C. H. Malin, a most respectable member of the College faculty, is induced to go to a prize fight! Then the fun begins. "What Happened to Jones?"

FORDSON

TRADE MARK

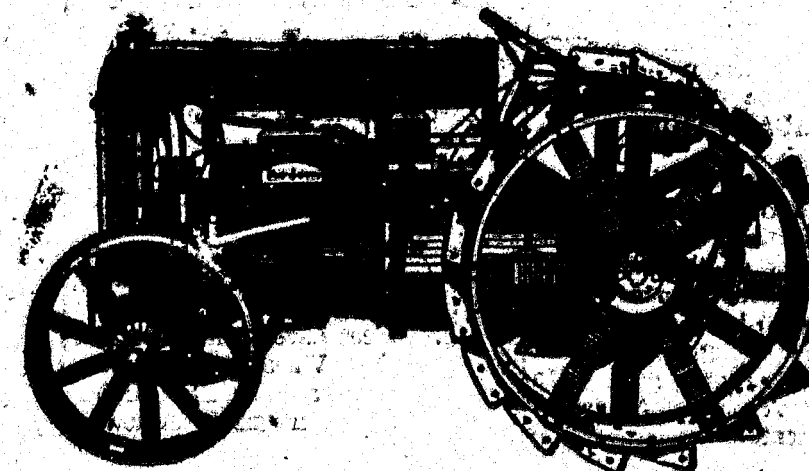

The Fordson Tractor was made to meet the demands and necessities of the every-day American farmer. It was made with the thought that it was the necessity of thousands of acres. It was made not only for plowing, harrowing, discing, drilling, seeding, mowing, reaping, but for all other work on the farm where power is needed. It was made to bring convenience to the farmer's home as well as for cultivation of his fields. It was made to furnish power for the cream separator, silo filling, cutting feed, sawing wood, furnishing power for milking, washing, supplying the house with running water, farm. It was made to do all this economically and in a reliable way. It was made to be the big profitable servant on the farm.

And it has not failed in any of the expectations had for it. It has been tested as no other Tractor had been tested. It has been proven reliable and can furnish proofs impossible to any other Tractor. It has done these things not only in America, but in Europe, Asia, Africa, and in the Islands of the Seas. It has met successfully the demands of farmers in every part of the civilized world.

Therefore, the Fordson Tractor can meet all the conditions of your farm. When you buy a Fordson, you are not buying any experiment—you are buying a servant and a money-maker for you that you can depend upon absolutely from the first day you put it to work. It is easy to understand. It possesses all the power you want. It is simple to control. It is more flexible than you imagine. It will help you cultivate every y of work it can do.

We'd like every farmer that reads this, if he hasn't a Ford tractor already to come to us and let us sell him one. Let us demonstrate its power, its values, on your own farm. Let's get into details—power, reliability, economy. While the sale of a Tractor gives us a small profit, the purchase of a Tractor to the farmer means a money-making servant every day for years. So the sale of a Fordson means more to the purchaser than it does to us. We are arguing for your good, Mr. Farmer. Come in and talk it over. Your time against ours. It is worth it.

And remember, when you buy a Fordson Tractor, we are right here to keep that Tractor in reliable running condition every day. You won't have to wait if anything should get out of order. We are right here to keep it right, because one of the conditions of the Fordson Dealer is that he must keep on hand always a complete supply of parts. This is a guarantee we don't believe you can get with any other farm Tractor. Come in. Let's talk it over.

COMPETITIVE EXHIBITS ARE HELPFUL IN CREATING ADDED INTEREST IN GARDENING

Exhibits of Fruit and Vegetables Stimulate Interest in Gardening and Foster Community Spirit.

An organized competition among neighbors helps create added interest in vegetable, fruit, and flower growing in a community. To all those who desire to have a horticultural show or a garden competition, but who do not know exactly how to conduct one, is the purpose of a circular recently issued by the department of agriculture. The methods given in it are those which experience has proved to be easiest and best. Among the subjects treated are classification of entries, the arrangement of the hall and of the exhibits, the points observed in judging various horticultural exhibits, and the prizes offered.

Scope of the Exhibits.
An organization already in existence, such as a county or state fair, a farmers' club, a grange, a garden or horticultural club, or a boys' and girls' club, may foster a horticultural exhibit or a group may be brought together especially for the purpose. Once organized, this circular suggests the first step is to outline the scope of the exhibit. Competitions to be interesting must be fair and equitable. In order to make them so, competitors with similar opportunities should be matched against one another. The exhibits should be divided into as small units as possible, so that the person with only a few square feet of ground may show such products as he may grow, in even competition with like products produced by larger gardens. A large number of small exhibits instead of a few large ones favor a successful show. The main point is to have the premium list made up early, preferably before seeds are ordered. Exhibits should be attractively staged, the entries for a class being kept together. Both classes and individual entries should be plainly and appropriately labeled.

Helpful Competition.
Vegetable, fruit, and flower gardens or the home grounds of a community may be fairly classed and judged. These make most helpful community competitions.

Taken prizes instead of those of intrinsic value are all that is necessary for successful competitions. When the time of the show approaches the exact date must be fixed, and this should not be changed. If it is done it may provoke a feeling of unfairness.

Where competitions of any of the types discussed in the department's Circular 62 have been held, they have been found not only to stimulate interest in gardening and home adornment, but even more to get neighbors acquainted with one another and develop community spirit.

An exhibition requires considerable effort, but it is usually felt to be well worth while, even by those upon whom the heaviest burden falls.

PLANS OF WORK FOR CONTROL OF BEETLE

Quarantine Against Insect Will Be Rigorously Enforced.

Proceeding With Sodium Cyanide in Water Will Be Practiced on Sells Badly Infested With Larvae or Grubs—Note to Be Used.

At a recent conference of officials of the United States department of agriculture and the New Jersey department of agriculture, held at Riverport, plans of work for the control and suppression of the Japanese beetle were thoroughly gone into. Provision has been made thoroughly to inspect and certify products found free from the insect, including greenhouse and nursery stocks, fruits, vegetables and farm crops. While the quarantine will be rigidly enforced, it is believed that no serious interruption will result to the movement of most farm and other products from the infested territory. In control of the beetle, several methods of attack will be followed. Poisoning with sodium cyanide in water of such soils as are badly infested with the larvae or grubs will be practiced. Several million beetles, it is believed, can be captured by sweeping infested plants with nets. A band of vegetation from one-half to one mile wide surrounding the infested area will be kept thoroughly poisoned with insecticides sprayed or dusted on the plants. To prevent accidental carriage of the beetles on automobiles and other vehicles and on pedestrians, the roadways have been cleared, by grubbing and burning of food plants of the beetle. The weed food plants will be kept down by the use of large quantities of weed-killing chemicals. Attention is being given to the introduction of parasites of the beetle from Japan. An agent of the bureau of entomology is already in Japan, engaged upon the work.

The officials connected with this project believe that the operations of 1920 will pretty definitely indicate what can be expected from large-scale operations in suppression of the beetle.

PROTECT TREES FROM SWINE

Damage Can Be Reduced by Providing Rubbing Posts for Hogs Infested With Lice.

Very young trees can be protected from damage by hogs by providing rubbing posts and keeping the hogs free from lice. The animals will not rub against the trees so as to injure them if they are free from vermin. A good hog killer is a great help in this case.

MARKET STATIONS OF VALUE

Branches Reach Out in Every Direction and Constantly Circulate News of Importance.

Market stations maintained by the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture, in several of the leading cities, are well termed "branches." These reach out in every direction from the central office. Connected by wire and mail service, there is constant circulation of vital news, out and returning, between them and the office in Washington. The raw materials, so to speak, are gathered and worked over to make the market reports, reviews, and price articles which are distributed for the benefit of the public. The market station man works from the early stir of activity in the market section until the day's stint is finished. Usually he is a man with considerable technical training and experience in production or marketing.

TIMOTHY IS LOW IN PROTEIN

One of the Poorest Live Stock Feeds Farmer Can Grow—Cannet Be Compared With Alfalfa.

More timothy hay is grown in the United States than all other hays combined, and yet timothy is one of the poorest live-stock feeds that the farmer can raise. Its value for feeding purposes cannot be compared with clover or alfalfa. It is low in protein, the nutrient upon which farmers and more especially dairymen must to a large extent rely for the best returns from their herds. It is not very palatable to live stock, except, perhaps, to horses, and it has an undesirable constipating effect upon all classes of animals. Furthermore, it yields less than clover or alfalfa, and it is a fertility destroyer instead of a soil builder. All things considered, it has very little to commend it.

SAVE OLD FARM MACHINERY

Carefully Inspect Discarded Implements and Lay Apart Useful Gears, Braces, Etc.

Farm machinery, when discarded, should be carefully gone over with a view of saving the parts which have not been worn and which may be available for future use on other machines, or for other purposes. There are always many braces, gear wheels, bolts and nuts that can be used again. When the machine is discarded instead of hauling it to an obnoxious place to rust away, why not take it apart and place the usable pieces or parts in the machine shed, or work shop? It takes only a little time to take the machinery apart before it becomes rusty and many pieces thus secured will come in handy.

Colonial German Theater.

One of the world's most colossal theaters, and by far the most bizarre, is the great auditorium recently opened in Berlin. The dreary exterior of the building is monstrous, but gives little promise of the surprise within. The curving walls of the foyer, says an illustrated article in Popular Mechanics Magazine for May, merge into a domed roof, supported by carved mahogany columns. The upper portion of each column is formed by many disks that radiate orange and blue light from concealed bulbs. The auditorium itself suggests the Greek open-air amphitheater. The 5,000 seats are ranged in horseshoe plan around an arena, or more properly, an orchestra.

Chess Expert Doomed.

Genor Capablanca has set up as remarkable a record as ever was made in any sport in his chess exhibitions in Great Britain and Ireland. His total score in 1,352 games is 1,233 wins, 71 draws, and 23 losses. His opponents have included all the best English players. He takes them of thirty or more at a time. To each move on the board the Cuban master devotes an average of nine seconds, his victims six minutes. Recalling the tragic history of the great chess experts, of Morphy and others, one asks fearfully, when will Capablanca go insane? New York Globe.

United States Gold Coins.

The first American gold coins of eagles, half-eagles and quarter-eagles of the value of $10, $5 and $2.50, respectively, was placed in circulation 128 years ago. One and three dollar gold pieces were formerly coined, but they were discontinued in 1850. The first coin called an eagle was used in Ireland in the thirteenth century, and was so called from the figure of an eagle impressed upon it, but it was made of base metal. The standard of the eagle was borne by the ancient Persians, and the Romans also carried gold and silver eagles as ensigns, and sometimes represented them with a thunderbolt in their talons. Charles-magne adopted the double-headed eagle as the standard of the Holy Roman empire. The eagle was the standard of Napoleon I and Napoleon III, as well as of Austria, Prussia and Russia.

The Old Roman Housewife.

In the days of old Rome the culinary department of an elegant establishment boasted pans lined with silver and pails of various descriptions richly inlaid. There were egg frames that would cook twenty eggs at once, and pastry molds shaped like shells, and an infinite assortment of griddles, frying pans, cheese graters and tart dishes.

"Move Up."

Life is opportunity no matter where it is located. The right inner stimulus gives vision and the right expression of vision is toil. Learn to see life through its vista of possibilities and you get the unapproachable incentive to move up. Grumblers and complainers will move aside to make way for your progress while you rub shoulders with men and women who make living worth while. Each in his way matters to his fellows and the untoldable rattle lives on the crumbe that drop from their abundance. Envy and criticism may grow loud and abusive. These but test the bigness within. The truly big have no time for retort, but with giant strides move on.

Like and Unlike.

An old preacher used to say that a wife should be at once like and unlike three things. First, she should be like a small, always keep within her house, but she should not like a small, carry all she has on her back. Secondly, she should be like an echo, to speak when she is spoken to; but she should not like the echo, always have the last word. Thirdly, she should be like the town clock, always keep time regularly; but she should not like the town clock, speak so loud that all the town may hear her. —Boston Transcript.

The Ideal Arcol a Radiator-Boiler

For cellarless small houses, flats, stores, schools, stations, etc. It is unlike most hot water heating plants and does not require a cellar.

The Arcola Boiler can set in any room in the house. It is more pleasing in appearance than any stove. A stove heats in spots while the Arcola distributes the heat uniformly over the various rooms of the house. With this kind of a heating plant you stop trips to the cellar to "fire the furnace".

The only Ideal Arcola Radiator-Boiler heating plant in the county set up for display purposes showing you how it works can be seen at our store.

Learn to swim. With the possible exception of being and tending, there is no exercise that so well develops all parts of the body as swimming. Also, it may often be the means of saving your life or the life of another. Every child should learn to swim, as a part of its physical development. And every adult who has not learned to swim should do so.

Entomologist's First Duty. When a new pest to any crop is brought to the attention of the economic entomologist and a remedy is asked, he must first know just what the insect is. He must know the group to which it belongs, the habits of this individual species. It may be that it will prove to be a perfectly new species, in which case it must be accurately described and properly placed, so the other workers will know about it and about its relationships and its possibilities for harm.

Plan for Small Rodents

Indiscriminate and unmoderate killing of the small animals classed as rodents and regarded as vermin is condemned by the director of a western forestry experiment station. Observation gives evidence, he declares, that these little creatures, while responsible for a certain amount of destruction, are really helpful in the work of reforestation. A large percentage of the regrowth on burned areas sprouts from the seeds and nuts carefully hidden away by squirrels, mice, and chipmunks.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Your Eyes on the Goat

The runner who looks over his shoulder to see whether his rival is gaining on him, is pretty sure to lose the race. Keep your eye on the goal. The backward look means lost time. Whatever sort of race you are running. The things behind you do not matter. All that concerns you is on ahead.

The Wise Sex

CUT MEAT COSTS BY MARKETING RABBITS

Family Table Supplied With Excellent Cheap Food.

Department of Agriculture Recently Issued Bulletin on Rabbit Raising—Care and Feeding is Fully Explained.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One resident of Kansas City, Kan., raises every year 300 to 400 pounds of rabbit meat for his own table. It costs him only 20 cents a pound. There are an increasing number of people in this country who, to a greater or lesser degree, are cutting the high cost of living in the same way. Besides furnishing the home table with plenty of cheap meat, the rabbit grower can make money by marketing the surplus animals.

A high school boy in Iowa who breeds registered rabbit stock raised and sold enough rabbits in 1918 to clear more than $1,200. An Ohio farmer sends 400 pounds of rabbit meat a week to city restaurants, yet is unable to meet the demand.

Rabbit raising, either to supply the home table or the market, is steadily increasing in the United States. In the older countries rabbits have long been a valued source of cheap meat. The bureau of biological survey, United States department of agriculture, has recently issued a bulletin on rabbit raising in which the various breeds and their care and feeding are discussed. Recipes for the use of rabbit meat are also given. This Farmers' Bulletin, No. 1060, may be had free from the division of publications.

Brought Them Ready Mixed

Ann had been told by her mother to stop at the grocery's on her way home from school and bring a pound of flour, and a half pound of sugar and some baking powder. The little girl, thinking it too much trouble to carry the three parcels, placed the contents of each into one large bag and in that way carried it home. When she came home her mother asked her if she had forgotten something, and the child answered: "No, mother; I brought all you told me to, but I mixed the sugar, flour, and baking powder together in one bag, as I thought it wouldn't make any difference, as you put them all in the cake anyway."

City Without Windows

Out in the desert of Arabia, five days by caravan from Baghdad, stands the holy city of Nejer, and in the whole of the town of nearly 100,000 people there is hardly a house with windows. Also, beneath many houses are immense "cellars" or caves, hewn out of the limestone which underlies the Arabian desert about Nejer. Many of these cellars are built one room below the street level. These underground chambers are reached by winding stairways, also hewn from the rock. They were originally built to provide a refuge from the intense heat of midsummer, but in many instances they have now become a refuge for Arab criminals and robbers who live at Nejer and prey on the caravans of pilgrims.
